ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 29.—The American Minister, Clay, has received official information from Pekin that the Emperor of China has appointed Anson Burlingame Special Ambassador, as is supposed, to revise treaties between Eastern Powers and China, and to settle many complicated questions which have arisen with other ministers resident at Pekin. It is reported that the Convention of Virginia intends to remove the State officers of Virginia and to appoint others. The rebels must understand, however, that the nation will maintain its guarantees of rights to loyal men, and that equal rights and [illegible] are irreversable. Facts Against Fusion.

[illegible] time has elapsed since the elections to allow the excess of Democratic enthusiasm to [illegible]; and therefore it might be well for [illegible] of that party who since October have been [illegible] that the millennium is near, to [illegible] with somewhat more seriousness [illegible] have been manifesting of late, what [illegible] it actually is for the fulfillment of their hopes. For three months they have been assuring [illegible] and the rest of mankind that the contest of 1868 was already virtually settled; that the "Radicals" were utterly annihilated; that the Democratic candidate for President would dis[illegible], and that the reign of the [illegible] whose blood was not stirred by the [illegible] of Sumter, and whose hearts were [illegible] by the fall of Richmond, [illegible] be resumed. Though it might be [illegible] and even cruel to ask them to justify just [illegible] and prospects these hopes are [illegible], it would not be unprofitable for them to [illegible] this [illegible] important inquiry. Let us have [illegible], we are aware, are undesirable [illegible] who have been living [illegible] on the sweet confections upon which the Democracy have been feeding; [illegible] it is necessary at last to come down [illegible] and ine[illegible] as they may [illegible]. There are thirty-two States in the valley of the [illegible] and the upper Mississippi, and with the [illegible] of Kentucky, the Democrats have not carried one of them. These States throw 115 [illegible], of which Kentucky is entitled to 11, [illegible] 104 to the Republicans. The Democrats [illegible] that they have done great things in the late elections. The above shows exactly [illegible] in the Mississippi valley. On [illegible] which they have paraded with so [illegible], only 20 votes more [illegible] to give the Republicans a clear [illegible] in the electoral college, counting only [illegible] represented. All New England, [illegible] New Jersey, and the Pacific [illegible] voted in this estimate. Maine, [illegible] and Vermont would alone give [illegible] the twenty votes required. This [illegible] is fast [illegible] from [illegible] have been giving Democrats such [illegible] for some time past. But it is [illegible] the Republicans in those States had [illegible] their majorities [illegible], but if, with all the local [illegible] of the Republicans, and their obvious [illegible] in many places, the Democrats [illegible] the elections, how can they hope [illegible] year when the Republicans [illegible] and unitedly on national [illegible]. If, with the obvious advantages held [illegible] in 1867, they could not succeed, [illegible] that there is little hope for [illegible]. In Ohio the Republicans lost [illegible] by the [illegible] of the [illegible] in the State Constitution; in [illegible] a Democratic Judge was chosen by [illegible]. But in the latter State the [illegible] was carried by 60,000, and [illegible] of votes in [illegible] question. Who, [illegible] find any ground for believing that [illegible] will go Democratic, especially if [illegible] is nominated, an event which now [illegible]. If any of the Southern States [illegible] to the [illegible], they will surely vote [illegible] that there is nothing at [illegible] the [illegible] expectations of the [illegible] that they will carry the country. The [illegible] they [illegible] in justification of their [illegible] against them.

SEWARD'S PURCHASES.—English history tells [illegible] half a century ago, Lord Castlereagh [illegible] Java to the Dutch because he did not [illegible] that island was, and was too careless [illegible] to inquire. For several years [illegible] Seward has been endeavoring to purchase real estate on account of Uncle Sam in different parts of the world, apparently without inquiring [illegible] the property was situated, or what it might be worth. It has now come to be [illegible] that any nation which has an island or strip of territory to sell can always find a purchaser, [illegible] a bidder, in the American Secretary. The islands belonging to Denmark in the West Indies having become unprofitable to that [illegible], the earthquakes and tornadoes occurring [illegible] somewhat too frequent and destructive for [illegible], convenience or profit,—they are offered to the United States, at a great bargain of course, and the Senate is asked to ratify the purchase. Under the circumstances, some objection [illegible] to be made by that body to the treaty; and it would not be surprising if the Secretary's labors in that quarter should come to nothing. It [illegible] to be quite a risky business to invest ten or twelve millions in a piece of ground which shakes so [illegible] that nobody can live on it, and which is liable any day to slide from its foundations and [illegible] like the old Atlantis of the Greek geography. There is no probability that Denmark will insure the property she wants to sell, and the Senate appears to have no disposition to buy it on the principle which Castlereagh acted upon when he [illegible] Java to Holland.

WHERE WASHINGTON WORSHIPPED.—At Alexandria, Virginia, stands in good preservation, overgrown with ivy, a square and odd but comely [illegible] church, where Washington worshipped when he lived at Mount Vernon, which is eight miles distant. There is the square pew as it was when he sat in it. Jefferson, in his "Ana," in which he has left for posterity the amiable thoughts [illegible] he [illegible] of his contemporaries, which he did not find [illegible] to give effect to during a long life [illegible] devoted to such feelings, has [illegible] that Washington had no religion, and he [illegible] how some clergymen made him an address, and in his reply he made no recognition of divine power. But this square pew, yet well preserved in the ancient church at Alexandria, refutes this libelous record.

The Owyhee Avalanche says that during the month of December, Wells, Fargo & Co. shipped from Silver City bullion to the amount of $105,000. Next month the shipment will be larger. The Avalanche is confident that a year hence the mines of Owyhee will produce $1,000,000 per month.

FROM BAKER COUNTY.

BAKER COUNTY, Dec. 28, 1867.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Things move slowly away up here. Baker county is almost in its "normal condition"—as Nasby would say. The discovery of rich placer mines here [illegible] as far back as the year 1862, and the past summer has developed the fact that this county contains more mineral wealth than probably any other in the State. But its inaccessibility and the dangers of travel by the almost constant presence of hostile Indians combined, have retarded its growth so far, beyond doubt. The new placer mines that have been discovered the past year in Shasta creek, Rattlesnake, New District, Eastern District, Pocahontas and Umpqua Districts, would afford ample employment for thousands of men. We know whereof we speak; for we have visited nearly all of them and found wonderful preparations being made by the miners for work the ensuing spring. But—

"Winter has noiselessly Come down, like sleep upon th' exhausted world," and we are to find enjoyment for a few months to come in the contemplation of her gorgeous drapery and such social convivialities as the people are wont to encourage. Thus placidly, and perhaps frigidly too, we shall move along with hardly a ripple upon the body politic until springtime comes, inspiring with radiant hopes the bosom of the sturdy mountain miner, as well as the confiding valley husbandman, the merry, industrious mechanic, the lucre-hording merchant and the affable, ambitious professional.

QUARTZ INTERESTS,

and quartz paying lodes abound in this county without a doubt. If the richness of the Umpqua Mining District, situate about twenty miles in a northwesterly direction from this place, was known in New York or San Francisco, such a furore as has not existed since the palmiest days of the Comstock in Nevada, or the Poorman in Idaho, would be enacted next year. The owners of the Mammoth quartz lode in this district, Messrs. John Sanderson and Andrew Smith, have run a tunnel into it 70 feet, this summer, have built an arastra, propelled by a water wheel 20 feet in diameter, and have succeeded in crushing 4½ tons of rock, which paid them an average of 9½ ounces per ton; and this, too, with new machinery, and neither of them ever having seen an arastra in operation before, (although the man who built it had.) The gold is estimated by competent judges to be worth $12 50 per ounce, thus yielding over $115 per ton. Now, when it is considered that this experiment, so disadvantageously [illegible]ated, has proven so well, may we not justly predict that their mine will yield richly if the rock could be crushed by machinery having the modern improvements for the saving of all the metals?

Then there is the Yellow Jacket lode, owned by Beck and Beatty, and the Lone Star, owned by Porter and Iler. The Summit Lodge, Nos. 1 and 2, Minto Lodge, Blue Skin and North Star lodes all promise fair prospects and assays to contain paying quantities of the precious metals. These facts I get from parties who have no interest in "puffing" the wealth of these lodes or in falsifying the character or qualities of these quartz mines.

I have before indicated the reason of the tardy development of the mines in Eastern Oregon. And when we reflect that the citizens of Auburn and Baker City are loth to travel between the respective towns (the largest in the county) except in numbers sufficient for mutual protection from Indians, we may form some idea of the dangers attending the prospector as he goes hundreds of miles away into the southerly unprospected section of our county.

THE ERECTION OF CAMP HARNEY

southwest of us, has had the tendency to embolden the perpetrators of this section; and if it shall prove a nucleus around which the red devils are to congregate, as Camp Watson did in the earlier part of its existence, many indeed will be the lives of our fellow citizens lost in the coming year. Miners and prospectors have come into this county this fall to winter, not by the dozen but by the hundreds, so as to commence with the melting snows the labors the ensuing mining season. Idaho is sending a host of them outside of what are "indigenous" to Oregon soil.

STATE ITEMS.

The Teachers' Institute of Benton county held its first meeting at Corvallis on the 26th and 27th of December.

The oil mill at Salem is at work, making about two barrels of oil per day. It is expected that the daily product will be soon increased.

About forty members were in attendance at the late session of the Marion County Teachers' Association, held at Butteville. The meeting was one of much interest. The proceedings occupied three days. Steps were taken to form a Teachers' Library for Marion county.

A Jacksonville paper says that the fear of the South at present is that she is to be euchred out of the only road that can ever be of any possible benefit to her. What is needed and what we must have, is a road upon which we can travel and ship our produce, either to Portland or to San Francisco.

A correspondent of the Corvallis Gazette writes from Yaquina that the method of taking oysters by dredging ought to be stopped. They want legislating on the subject. There are not more than ten oystermen actively engaged at present, and as those who work by hand cannot compete with the dredgers, the latter have it all their own way.

The Jacksonville Reveille has the following: On Christmas evening, while working at his claim on Jackson creek, the bank caved in upon Mr. Larkinson and broke his leg. His partner, Mr. Pflug, who was going home from town on horseback, hearing of the accident put his horse on speed, which, stepping on a flat stone, fell, stunning the rider and breaking his collar bone.

The Herald tells of a "high-toned bilk" who recently [illegible] from Albany, leaving numerous creditors for small sums behind him. He came as an ex-Judge from California about three months ago. He had filled [illegible] positions, they say, in Illinois, [illegible] sent as a Judge to Utah [illegible] years since, and in the course of his drifting fortunes he came to California, and lastly to Oregon, [illegible] our Democratic friends there to celebrate their victory in Ohio and Pennsylvania, from the [illegible] at the flag [illegible]. Albany was chosen as his [illegible] in Oregon, and there he [illegible] a practice at all its bars, and also [illegible] the use of the confidence game to impose on many [illegible] who knew something of him or felt kindly to a man from [illegible]. He borrowed sums, [illegible] from a $2 currency note to a handful of twenties, as credulous [illegible] showed admiration. He pocketed money collected for clients, and playing for all he could get, he thus gathered $600 or $700.

After waiting a couple of weeks, to get the better of its disappointment, we suppose, the Herald has at last condescended to notice the election of Mr. Casserly as Senator for California. Beriah is not pleased; says he would not have supported Casserly because Casserly said such hard things about his party in 1861; in other words, he would not have supported him because he then talked like a patriot. But while Beriah does not consider Casserly's record good, he has hopes that the "Radicals" will not catch him. Dull as Beriah is, he knows that it will not do to trust any but the "simon-pures."

The Albany Copperheads have resolved to strike for the Constitution "as our fathers made it." This is intended as a crushing blow against the emancipation amendment. The Albany braves are the forlorn hope in the assault on the amendment. One of the solemn poets characterizes a certain vicious class as "the devil's pioneers." This is the distinction to which the Albany "Democracy" aspire. Could a hope of success be entertained, the whole Democratic party would join in an attempt to abolish abolition, and make things "normal" again.

A Railroad Convention to discuss and set forth the views of Idaho Territory on the subject of railroads in general, and the Salt Lake and Columbia river branch in particular, was called to meet at Boise City on the 6th inst. The Convention was to consist of 46 delegates, of whom Boise county was to have twenty-four, Owyhee and Ada eight each, Alturas six, Oneida four, and the remaining counties sixteen.

HOW TO PUNISH JEFF. DAVIS.—The Cincinnati Gazette suggests a terrible punishment to Jeff. Davis by proposing as follows:

Jefferson Davis is a fit subject for Johnson's pardon. This ignominy may serve in the place of penalty. We know of nothing more humiliating that we can do to him, than to have him owe his discharge to Johnson's pardon. Let him have this, and let us stop the farce of a trial which is announced as close at hand.

"BLEAK HOUSE" VERIFIED.—There is really "a young man of the name of Guppy!" His initials are B. J., and he has contributed a statistical paper on coolies to the Scientific Association of Trinidad.

Railroad Meeting at Jacksonville.

[From the Jacksonville Reveille, Dec. 28th.]

On Saturday last quite a large number of the substantial citizens of this county met at the Court House, to take into consideration what was necessary to be done to advance the railroad interests of this valley.

The meeting was organized by the election of Hon. E. D. Foudray Chairman, and O. Jacobs Secretary. The Chairman briefly stated the object of the meeting as above.

After which, O. Jacobs moved that a committee of three be appointed by the Chairman, to draw up a statement of the sentiments and opinions of the citizens of this county, in regard to the railroad surveyed by Messrs. Beldon and Elliot, through this county and valley; and to remonstrate with the Congress of the United States against the appropriation of any lands to defeat the same; or against the diversion of the land grant heretofore made for the same; and that said committee report at some future meeting of the citizens of this county.

Pending the motion Samuel Colver was called for, and made a lengthy speech on railroad and wagon road matters.

Mr. Jacobs and Mr. Fay urged the necessity of speedy action.

Messrs. Kiligore and Klippell briefly stated their views. After which the motion was put by the Chairman and carried unanimously.

The Chairman appointed Messrs. Colver, Fay and Sarbe on said committee.

Mr. Fay moved that the committee be instructed to report by the way of remonstrance against the grant of any more land by Congress for building wagon roads. Fay and Colver supported the motion—Kiligore and Jacobs opposed.

The motion was put by the chairman and decided in the affirmative.

On motion the meeting adjourned to the second Saturday in January next.

E. D. FOUDRAY, Chairman.
O. JACOBS, Secretary.

BRONCHITIS.—FROM MR. C. H. GARDNER, Principal of the Rutgers' Female Institute, N. Y., May 14th, 1856: "I have been afflicted with Bronchitis during the past winter, and found no relief until I found your Troches." PORTLAND SCHOOL HOUSE.—This house is now completed and ready, as we understand, to be offered for use by the School Directors. It is a large and [illegible] building, standing on a commanding eminence near the rear of North Portland, between C and D streets. The contractors were Messrs. Goodenough & Clark, who took the job for $10,400—a sum which seems small enough for so large and fine a building. The main building is 60 by 80 feet, with two wings, 12 by 40 feet each. The basement is built of brick, and is divided into six rooms, to be used for storing fuel. The [illegible] floor is divided into four principal rooms each 27 by 40 feet, to be used as recitation and school rooms. Each of the two main entrances leads into a hall which is [illegible] to two of the school rooms and to the cloak room [illegible]. Two of the walls in each room, opposite the windows, has each a black-board about four feet deep and [illegible] the entire length and breadth of the room. The black-boards are made by mixing with the plaster, lamp-black and marble dust, and they are very perfectly adapted to their intended uses, being hard, [illegible] and yet very susceptible to the touch of chalk. The [illegible] as well as the plastering was done by Mr. M. A. [illegible]. The upper story is divided into three rooms—two of them counterparts of the rooms below, and the [illegible] twice as large, or half the area of the story. All three are provided as the r[illegible] below. All the rooms [illegible] by large [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] hung on pulleys and may be put up or down [illegible] and by any child. The rooms are all to be warmed by stoves, the pipes from which lead across the [illegible] to a chimney in the centre of the building. The [illegible] is provided with 12 distinct flues, [illegible] in the center for ventilation. The lower story is 14 feet high and the upper 18 feet. Each room above and below is [illegible] with native lumber, [illegible] stained [illegible]. The doors and castings are all very neatly [illegible] of hard wood, and varnished. The stair rails are of [illegible] rich in [illegible] and apparently very [illegible] and durable. The wood work was all done by [illegible] job which does credit to [illegible] inside was done by [illegible] every respect. The doors and [illegible] are particularly worthy of [illegible] and [illegible]. Taken as a whole, [illegible] work, the [illegible] of which her liberal people may well be proud. The [illegible] are not yet in, but they are under contract to be [illegible] by Mr. Wilcox. They are to be of the same style [illegible] used in the Harrison street school.

[illegible]—WHY THEY BREAK.—We find in a [illegible] the following, about lamp chimneys, which may be of use to our readers: "Every person who has had any [illegible] with lamp chimneys is aware of the [illegible] in the length of time they will [illegible]. Some will last for months, [illegible] sound and good, will break after [illegible] great [illegible] and [illegible] so daily lies in the material they are made from. There is 'shoddy' in glass as well as in cloth. [illegible] the [illegible] of the day, a great many [illegible] from [illegible] of lime [illegible] lead. The [illegible] of lead has about the following proportions: [illegible] 25; [illegible] good con[illegible] of [illegible] a chimney made from this formula would [illegible] it would crack with the heat. The [illegible] of these [illegible] qualities of glass by ringing [illegible] The [illegible] of the cost of [illegible] point is [illegible] can be seen in the glass; the particles in the annealed glass lie close and [illegible] while [illegible] seem ready to divide."

[illegible] The [illegible] mills has cost [illegible] barrel of flour, [illegible] since [illegible] and the [illegible] to be that the quality will [illegible] We do not at all believe it to be superior to the Standard [illegible] has been, until within a [illegible] to the market, much of which had come to be [illegible] and [illegible] been taken out and new and improved machinery substituted; [illegible] this way. It is said that the grinding capacity of the mill now is not less than 2,000 [illegible] per day. We do not know how this [illegible] with the other mills of the State [illegible] hear that [illegible] and we have it upon authority that none of the San F[illegible] the National, [illegible] with its [illegible] the best on the [illegible].

[illegible] The lake near the Gas Works was [illegible] entirely safe. This fact [illegible] known at an early hour, brought out crowds of fun-seekers who [illegible] their hearts' content, during the entire day and till a [illegible] little boy, big boy, young man, and old man in the city [illegible] on his feet and skating on the brain. There [illegible] have been a few who did not get out; but they [illegible] certain to [illegible] the fever and go, to-day. There were several ladies too, who graced the festive [illegible] and seemed to be about as [illegible]. We hear that many more of [illegible] to-day. Why not? At the East, this [illegible] and skating is coming to be considered an accomplishment [illegible] as to be able to dance, or sing or play. We vote for the female skating, most [illegible]. The lake, with the [illegible] will be in splendid condition to-day, and the [illegible] may be [illegible] to go on. The world and [illegible] will be there.

Delay & Stout vs Chapman et al; same order as in the last case. Stout & Reed for plaintiffs; Chapman for defendant.

The Court then adjourned until Saturday Jan. 18th.

OSWEGO CASTINGS.—The Alert yesterday brought down a lot of the water pipes lately cast at Oswego, from metal drawn off from the smelting furnace directly into the moulds. They are very fine specimens of casting and attracted a good deal of admiration from the Oregonians who examined them. The pipes are of six and a half inch bore and weigh only thirty pounds to the foot. In this sort of casting, lightness is a chief consideration after that of strength, and as the ordinary practice is not [illegible], it is desirable to make them as thin as they can be cast. It is thought that the works at Oswego will be able to cast them weighing considerably less than thirty pounds per foot. Captain Kellogg mentioned to us that the superintendent of the works, lately cast of metal directly from the furnace some very small and delicate [illegible], with as perfect success as the large castings.

HAS SOME FERTILITY.—The Mining and Scientific Press mentions a "singular instance of a mushroom growth in the [illegible]." Well, what of it? Do we not read every day of fertile brains? It simply proved that the [illegible] head was not altogether barren. Or, in spite of the [illegible] disquisitions of the Press, it might have resulted from a too sparing use of soap and water. The Grass Valley National mentions the "singular instance" [illegible] "It is not uncommon for a cabbage to grow on a human neck, but as a general thing it does not make a sound, solid head." No reference to any of its [illegible].

[illegible].—Mr. M. Phipps, the man mentioned as having been arrested on Saturday on a telegraphic warrant from [illegible], was [illegible] Judge Upton, [illegible] day, and was [illegible]. It appears that the warrant did not come from [illegible], but from Albany. Sheriff Harvey [illegible] arrived here yesterday by the steamer Alert, and [illegible] the man and will return with him to Albany to-day. The charge against him is simply [illegible] down from first reports, to that of embezzling $482 50.

AT CHAMBERS.—The following proceedings were had [illegible] day before Judge Upton, sitting at chambers:

In the matter of the petition of M. Phipps for writ of habeas corpus; the petitioner having been arrested by the Marshal of the City of Portland, for larceny, upon a telegraphic dispatch from Linn County; the matter was heard and the petitioner discharged. Stout & Reed for the petitioner and Page for the State.

PRODUCE.—The Alert yesterday brought down from Oregon City 223 bags wheat, 170 sks oats, 121 sks barley and 168 qr. sks flour.

INTO THE BASIN.—The water had fallen yesterday [illegible] to [illegible] the steamers Echo and Fannie Patton to enter the basin.

ICE FOR NEXT SUMMER.—Those who felt the want of ice last summer, will rejoice that there is no longer any question as to the supply for the next season. The late solid freeze-up has settled that question. We learn that Messrs. Chas. Burchardt, Walter Moffitt and Joseph Oppenheimer have associated themselves as partners in the ice business and have already commenced active operations. They will, in a short time, have enough put away to supply the city and surrounding towns with all they will need for the summer.

CANVASS FOR RAILROAD STOCK.—The canvass for subscriptions to the Oregon Central Railroad is now in progress in the city, with very good success so far, and prospects for a very substantial contribution to the enterprise from individual subscribers. Gen. Lovejoy is aiding in the canvass, and is authorized to receive subscriptions of stock and donations. The General drove the first stakes, we believe, in founding the city of Portland, and he now declares that he is bound to drive the first stakes for her first railroad.

THE SENATOR.—In consequence of high water, and the interruption to freighting through the warehouse at Oregon City, the Senator has not yet begun to make regular daily trips; but it is the intention of the company to put her in service on Wednesday.

THE STEAMER LEWISTON.—The steamer Lewiston has taken water above the falls and is now moored at the bank at Canemah. She was launched into the basin, against the protest of the P. T. Co. and then hauled up through the canal by capstan power.

THE COLUMBIA CLOSED.—We learned through the postmaster last evening, that the Columbia was closed by ice and that no boats or mails would leave this morning for the Cascades.

ADJOURNED MEETING.—There will be an adjourned [illegible] meeting of the Pioneer B. B. Club this evening at half-past seven o'clock. Prompt and full attendance requested.

REDUCTION OF PRICE OF GAS.—We learn that the Gas Co. have resolved to reduce the price of gas, from and after the 1st of February, to $6 per thousand feet.

THE FIDELITER.—A telegram of last evening from Victoria, announces the arrival at that city of the steamship Fideliter, at half past 2 o'clock P. M.

THE LADIES' RELIEF SOCIETY will meet in the basement of the Presbyterian Church this day (Tuesday) at 2½ o'clock P. M.

PLUMBING AND GAS FITTING. See Mr. C. H. Myers' new advertisement to-day. Should this freezing weather burst water pipes or anything of that kind, Mr. Myers is the man you want to see, concerning repairs. Do you want anything done in the line of plumbing or pipe laying, Mr. Myers is the man to go after. He is a "cunning workman" and moreover is well known by his works.

DR. C. W. COOL,
DENTIST.

THOSE WHO DESIRE FIRST-CLASS DENTAL SERVICES might do well to give him a call. He is making a NEW AND IMPROVED VULCANITE PLATE. The nature of his improvement consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold; it makes the plate twice as strong and one-third times thinner than the common vulcanite plate. It also prevents the acids of the mouth from roughing the plate, and from turning it black, which is a common occurrence. One half of the common vulcanite plates turn black after being in use a short time, particularly where tobacco is used for smoking. His new style of plate admits of a very fine finish on the concave or palate surface. His office is the only place where such work can be had. The improvement is his own invention, for which he has received, December 3d, 1867, a patent from the United States Patent Office. He has been making this style of work for the last two and a half years, and has specimens of the work which can be seen at his office. This work has given satisfaction in every case.

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER.

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS!

At this period there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands alone, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines, and its sale is universal and immense. The demand for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the demand at home, and it has become known in these far off places by its merits.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is pleasant in taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and immediate in its action.

Just Cause for being Alarmed.—When a Cough has been running for a long time, and you begin to feel a pain setting in upon your lungs, attended with tightness across the chest, it is high time that you should awaken to the danger of your disease, which is fast running into Consumption. Now, before it is too late, use ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, which will cure the disease, and all will be well with you. For sale by the Dealers in Family Medicines generally.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU gives health and vigor to the frame and bloom to the pallid cheek. Debility is accompanied by many alarming symptoms, and if no treatment is submitted to, consumption, insanity, or epileptic fits ensue.

The Murdered Orderly.

[From All the Year Round.]

There was an Hungarian in my staff, a man closely bordering on middle age, and of extraordinary intelligence and information. He spoke five languages—his native tongue, English, French, German and Spanish—and possessed an extensive knowledge of the history of many lands. My first encounter with him in Australia was rather curious, and shows what singular coincidences will occur in life.

I had camped one evening, after many miles of travel, near a welcome water hole, and was sitting on a log wearily waiting for the "billy" to boil, when a man rode up driving three horses before him. He saluted me in a slightly foreign accent, and was proceeding further on, when I told him that as tea was nearly ready he had better halt there. This is customary. God bless the gallant, the generous pioneer squatters of Queensland. I say it, not so much on account of their kindness to me, for they might be supposed to bestow it on account of the office I fill; but the weary traveler high or low, is sure of a shelter and a hearty welcome to every comfort the station can bestow.

After he had unsaddled and let his horses go loose, our dialogue commenced.

"You look ill. Have you fever and ague?" I asked.

"Very bad, sir; I am on my way to town for advice and change of air."

Here he commenced shivering violently, and I gave him a strong dose of quinine, which, with a hot cup of tea, gave him speedy relief. I sat up till a late hour that night, hearing passages of a life full of adventure and of struggle.

He had been an officer of cavalry, and had taken an active part under Kossuth, for whom he had boundless enthusiasm. My men had withdrawn to their own camp-fire, out of hearing; so his only auditors were myself and my boy. He was consequently unreserved in his communications. After describing a cavalry skirmish in which he had been wounded and taken prisoner, he proceeded to tell me how he escaped in a manner almost miraculous and landed on English soil without a cent in the world.

"Never shall I forget," he said, "the crushing feeling of loneliness which came upon me when night arrived, and when I saw others hurrying, after their daily business, to their happy homes, in the crowded city. Weak and hungry, I knew I could not last long, and I laid myself down in an archway to die. The pangs of hunger, however, soon roused me, and I went to a shop and disposed of some of my clothes, whereby I was enabled to live for some days. I went everywhere, seeking employment as teacher of [illegible] as writing master, as clerk, as porter, but all in vain. No one would believe my story, no one would employ me without a character. I [illegible] my wounds. I asked shelter until I could produce credentials from Hungary. Fruitless. At last, when literally starving, I roamed into the country. I had never yet begged. I had always offered my services; but now pride began to break down, and I determined to become a mendicant. I approached a country house, and saw a very young man reading in a bow-window which was partly open. Three times I went within a few yards of that window, and three times I went away, despairing. The young man, meanwhile, never raising his head, being absorbed in his book. Hunger spurred me on. I advanced and said:

"'Help a poor man, [illegible]!'

"The youth looked up, and said, hastily and angrily, 'No!' He was very handsome, and the angry look did not become him.

"Slowly and mournfully I retired; and, I think, for the first time since my exile, tears flew from my eyes. Hardly had I walked a hundred yards, when I heard a hasty step behind me, and, on turning, I met the young man running without a hat.

"'Stop!' said he, 'I was infernally busy with a [illegible] ode when you spoke to me. Are you really in distress?'

"'I am a beggar,' I said, bitterly, 'and my cheeks are hollow, of course. The poor are always [illegible] in the eyes of the rich.'

"'There is no of course in it,' he replied; '[illegible] Why, God knows, your cheeks are hollow enough. You are a real foreigner, too, and have read English authors, or you never would have used that word hollow as you did. Are you hungry?'

"'I have not tasted food for three days and three nights.'

"'Here!' exclaimed the young fellow, 'wait till I get my hat! Don't move from the spot!' And away he ran toward the house, leaving me wondering at his strange manner.

"In a few seconds he returned, breathless, and led me with [illegible] rapidity, to a [illegible] hotel in the suburbs of the town. With wonderful [illegible] meal was placed before me, and he made me swallow a tumbler of excellent [illegible] before he would allow me to say a word. [illegible] We drew our chairs near the fire and I told him the sad history of my country and my own. Never shall I forget the manly sympathy of that noble fellow. When I opened my closely buttoned coat, and showed him the newspaper [illegible] my skin to serve as a shirt, he complained that he had got an infernal cold in [illegible] poking viciously at the fire in the grate. After a long pause he said: 'Do you know any person in England who would be likely to be of service to you?'

"I said there was a relative of mine, well off, but he lived in a very distant town.

"'Well, now,' said he, 'look here, I am short [illegible] I have only [illegible] five pounds. Could you make your way to him with that?'

"I told him yes, but that I would rather take a [illegible] than put him to inconvenience.

"'Inconvenience be hanged!' he said. 'The devil! what [illegible] inconvenience to the makeshift of a [illegible] for a shirt?'

"He would not be refused. I had to take the money, and from that moment all went well with me. I fell in with a Captain of one of the Australian [illegible] ships, who gave me a free passage. I [illegible] a shepherd in New South Wales, [illegible] three thousand sheep, began to lose my health, came to Queensland for change, went far into the interior, got the post of [illegible], stayed in that situation until last week, when fever and ague set in, and I am on my way to Rockhampton for medical advice."

"What is your name?" I asked.

"Fritz Wiener."

"No," I said, "your name is Miska Vensirdlen."

He started up from his seat, and peered into my face.

"No," said he, after a pause, "you are not my [illegible]. I should know him if age had planted as many wrinkles on his face as there are leaves on this gum tree. Yet you are like him. And, now that I think of it, the name of the Commissioner of the district is the same as his, and you [illegible] Great Heavens! you cannot be he!"

"No," I replied; "I wish I were as good a man. He was my only brother. He showed me the letter you sent him before you sailed. You [illegible] that you paid him the five pounds in little more than a year. I saw the letter of credit."

"Yes, sir, on the Union Bank. But he was [illegible] on receiving it?"

"He was not; but we were one family, I mean. We had not seen you. Why did you change your name?"

All respectable foreigners do so, who look for a return to their native country. Where is your brother now, sir?"

But he had only to look into my face to see the answer there.

"You need not tell me, sir, you need not tell me," he said, in accents of unfeigned sorrow, "that is one of my life's objects gone. Next to the happiness of seeing my native land again, I hoped to see him once more, and show him my gratitude."

Miska (or Michael in English) stayed with me that night; and as I had a vacancy in my staff, he agreed to engage in my service, merely to drive my horses while I was surveying and exploring. I knew I should cure him by a discreet use of quinine and chlorodyne and I succeeded in doing so. Many a tale he told me of Hungary and of Deutschland, and many a happy hour we enjoyed at the camp-fire in the lonely, melancholy bush.

One evening we came to a sheep station, where we found two shepherds. We were informed by them that, four days back, when only one shepherd lived there, he saw a large mob of blacks at the creek to which he had gone down for water, and which was about a quarter of a mile from the hut. The blacks were all armed with spears, waddies, (clubs for throwing) nullah-nullahs, (clubs for close combat) boomerangs, and tomahawks. He was without a weapon. They sent forward two or three gins (females) to him, but he waved his hand, said "yambo," (begone) and they stopped. He then retreated slowly to his hut, got the sheep secured in the yard, fastened the door of the hut, and having previously possessed himself of his carbine, went off for assistance to the third station, sixteen miles away. An armed party started thence early in the morning, and found that the blacks had dug under the hut, and had taken flour and various other things. They tracked the savages for a long distance, until they came to a rocky ridge, very thickly timbered, where they gave up the pursuit.

I had to follow this creek down, and I issued orders that no man of my party should go out of sight of the camp without a revolver. A few mornings afterward some of my horses were not to be found, and the men scattered themselves to look for them. All were at last brought in save Miska's. I pushed on with my son to the head station, which was eight miles off, leaving directions with my chainman to assist Miska. That same evening my party arrived, and camped near the station; but the horses were not yet found. My chainman came up and reported himself to me, but Miska I did not see that night. Next day was Sunday. About 11 o'clock next morning I went down to inspect my camp, and found that Miska had set off an hour before, expressing his determination to stay out until he found the animals. He took two or three days' rations, and told my chainman that he had his "shooting iron" with him. He did not return that night, and next morning I had to set off with my party to complete the adjustment of boundaries. A good many days elapsed before I returned. In this interim two travelers saw a body floating in a very long water hole, near the place where I had last camped before I departed. This was the corpse of poor Miska, greatly decomposed, but not sufficiently so to conceal the spear wound which had robbed him of his life—a coward thrust in the back.

The word was passed from station to station, (there are but few in that remote nook of the earth), and in a day or two, eight or nine determined men, mounted on splendid stock-horses, and guided by two tame blacks, were on the death-trail.

For about a mile and a half, their course lay through what is locally called "Old-man Triddia"—a sort of spinifex grass. It covers the whole surface of the ground, and is from three to four feet high. The blades are such strong prickles, that I have doubled thick mole-skin trousers four times—that is, made eight layers of the fabric—and yet have passed the spear-blades through them as swiftly as you pass a needle through cambric. But the blacks make their way through this obstruction with facility and speed.

The party now began to approach the water-shed, which in that place was very wild and rough. Night drew on, and there was no appearance of the blacks. The traces were fresh. No fear was entertained of failure in coming up with them, and our friends quietly camped beside a rocky water-hole. Next day, at an early hour, they resumed their march.

Suddenly one of the black guides turned back to a squatter, and said, with great glee:

"Cobawn gin like along a billy-bong." (Plenty of gins near a water-hole.)

"Where that fellow, billy-bong?"

"Close up that fellow."

In a few minutes we had surrounded the gins, and the wretched creatures shrank cowering to the ground. They were at once secured.

Few white men slaughter gins, no matter how great the provocation. I have scarcely ever known them to be killed unless by mistake. Nevertheless, nothing is better established than the fact that they are infinitely worse than the males, as the instigators and the chief and primary agents of most of the outrages committed by the latter.

Many questions were asked of the gins by the guides, which they answered readily.

Next day the party struck sharp off to the north, over a high range covered with trees, and were surprised to find water in many clefts in the rocks, whereas a drought had prevailed for some time in the low country. It would seem that on this very high ground, the spiculæ of the tree-leaves frequently attract the electricity of the clouds, and thus produce showers which do not reach the lowlands. The stony ground was very severe on the horses, for station-horses are never shod; their hoofs grow even too quickly, and often need paring. When night began to close in, the guides strenuously urged the party not to camp, but to follow them in silence. Some were opposed to this, but gave way; and at length, after emerging from a pretty thick shrub, they were gratified by the sight of numerous fires in a hollow about a mile off. On a dark night the fires of a camp of black fellows have an imposing effect. Each family has a number of small fire-sticks placed around them. When nearly extinguished, they can fan these up in a moment. I have often seen nothing but tiny sparks here and there, and in less than a minute have seen a mile of blazing lights.

The party tied their fasting horses up, and gave them a few bunches of herbage. They themselves took cold meat and "damper"; they could make no tea, as a fire would be discovered by the enemy.

Half an hour before dawn every man was on his horse, and moving toward the silent camp. Two went round to the right, and two by the left, and the rest went straight onward. Very quickly they advanced, and halted for a space, the blacks giving no sign; but at length, the day having now broken, the dogs of the savages began to bark, the blacks bounded to their feet, and found themselves confronted by foes in three directions. With a loud "whoop," the avengers were among them, shooting them down from the distance of a yard. One squatter saw a huge fellow with a map of Queensland (it belonged to poor Miska), hanging down from his shoulders like an apron. He shot him through "Port Denison," which covered the region of the heart. The savages seeing there was little chance of escape, whirled their weapons in grim silence. They never think of submitting by word or question, any more than than they expect that the "wallabies," on which they feed, will submit to them in the chase. Boomerangs, waddies and spears flew thickly, but with little effect. A savage, seeing a rider about to cover him with a revolver, rushed forward, and dodged on either side of the horse's head in so surprisingly active a manner, that the rider, who was almost disabled in the left arm, could not fire without danger to the horse. Another squatter seeing this, rushed forward to decide the affair, when the black suddenly sprang to the horses' tail, and dodged about there in like manner. It was not without great trouble that he was killed. Another squatter, having pushed a savage hard, the savage suddenly turned and sent a waddie against his enemy's head with such violence as to knock him off his horse. In a moment the tomahawk was raised against the prostrate man; but, with the speed of lightning the double-trigger "Tranter" was raised too, and with a guttural "ewgh," the savage as suddenly fell dead.

Meanwhile the gins and the piccaninnies were flying about, shouting their shrill "e e e's," and "ow—ow—ow's," but it was all over in a few minutes, and then the avengers began to reckon up their work. Eighteen blacks lay dead, and one piccaninny. Fierce gleams flashed from the white men's eyes when they came upon the dead child.

"Who killed this boy?" exclaimed one.

Of course no one had killed him, and, in fact, no one had meant to kill him. the boy had perished by a stray shot in the melee. Very few hurts had been received by the whites. On examining the black's camp, almost all of poor Miska's property was found; among other things, his check-book, but all the money he had had about him was gone. The piccaninnies were taken prisoners by the squatters, and shared among them; certainly a fate for the better in respect of the boys.

From one of these some months afterward, when he could speak a little English—I received a mimetic description of Miska's death. The blacks of Queensland generally are perfect mimics. He described Miska's walking along with his erect, military bearing; then a sudden stop, and a peering look into the neighboring scrub, as though he had heard a noise, or seen something suspicious. Then he described the walk renewed, another stop, and a rather frightened look around; then, the sudden consciousness of being "circumvented" by the blacks, who now begin to appear from among the trees; then the quick but bewildered turn to fly; then a whir-r-r-r-r, and a boomerang strikes him on the temple; he reels, puts up his hand to wipe off the blinding blood, and sinks slowly to the ground. Then, the rush of the savages (silent as Fate) toward him. He struggles to his feet, and joins his two hands together. Then came the halt of the wretches about ten yards from him; then, the poising of the spear, the hurling of the missile through the air, the death-cry of my poor friend as it grided through his frame; his falling back, and the protruding spear supporting him for an instant; his rolling half round and tearing up the grass; then the blow on the head with a nullah-nullah. All this was shown to me with appalling effect, and I have no doubt, with perfect accuracy.

HIRAM SMITH'S

Ophthalmic Panacea!

In bringing the above-named NEW REMEDY to the notice of the Public, the Proprietor begs to state a few facts in relation to it, as follows:

It originated in Prussia, where the science of Medicine is so thoroughly taught and practised, but owing to the poverty of its discoverer its wonderful properties were not known beyond the limited circle of his acquaintance, in which, however, it proved itself absolutely infallible in eradicating disease from the eyes.

He immigrated to this country, bringing his discovery with him, but seems to have been indifferent to the propriety of giving it general and wide-spread circulation, and, as previously in his native country, seemed only desirous of using it among his friends and neighbors.

The present proprietor was one of those neighbors, and for many years was a witness to its wonderful efficacy, and, after ineffectual efforts to persuade the inventor to more widely disseminate the knowledge of its virtues, finally became himself the possessor of the secret of its preparation.

And now, while he does not deny that he hopes and expects to make money by its sale, he must yet lay claim to a desire to benefit his fellows by presenting to them a remedy which does and will cure where medical science and all experience have failed.

He wishes it to be understood that it will cure all diseases of the eye, whether of recent or long standing; but its greatest power is exhibited when it is applied to old Chronic Cases of long standing, which have resisted every other attempt to cure them, and which have been given up as hopeless and past being cured or relieved.

He asks those afflicted in this way to give it a trial, and so confident is he of its success that he instructs all his agents TO REFUND THE MONEY IF IT FAILS TO CURE.

It has, within the past year, cured cases of GRANULATED LIDS, INFLAMMATION, &c., of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN and SEVENTEEN YEARS STANDING, evidence of which fact is furnished in the testimony of the following persons, living at and in the neighborhood of Harrisburg, Linn county:

ALEXANDER L. WALKER was cured of inflamed eyes, of nine years standing. Had been treated by eminent physicians during all that time without effect.

Mrs. MONTGOMERY, of Harrisburg, had inflamed eyes for over two years. For one year they were so bad that she could not work. Was finally completely cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea.

E. B. MOORE, of the firm of Moore, Garst & Biber, of Harrisburg, had granulated lids for six years.

NATHANIEL BELL, of Clackamas county, had inflamed eyes—a bad case—for over fifteen years.

ROBERT RAMSEY and W. D. PORTER, of Harrisburg; JOHN M. HOLLOWAY, of Linn County; G. R. WARD, of Lane County, were all afflicted, more or less severely, with diseased eyes, and were cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea.

All the above named persons have given lengthy testimonials to the facts as above stated, which may be seen at the proprietor's office in Harrisburg.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, [illegible] and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying [illegible] see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused sight, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

TO THE LADIES.

The various complicated and distressing diseases incident to females, treated with eminent success. Such as Suppressions, Irregularities, Whites, Falling of the Womb, Tumors, all Urinary Diseases, Nervous Debility, Painful or Difficult Menstruation, Barrenness, etc., will be speedily cured, without poisonous drugs, injuries or unpalatable medicines of any kind. Have no delicacy in calling, no difference what your troubles may be. The afflicted are cordially invited to call and satisfy themselves.

Persons calling at Dr. Gibbon's office or sending for packages of medicines, may rely upon his assurances of confidential secrecy with implicit faith, and expect no more than to be charged with, a fair, and mutually satisfactory remuneration for services rendered, considering the circumstances and difficulties of cases, rather than a too prevalent and selfish practice of extortion among quacks and pretenders.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian
